The Meat Situation the World Over

Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the United States bureau of animal industry, who is making an inspection of the meat and packing conditions in Argentina, has completed his work there and will continue his observations in Uruguay and Brazil, a New York exchange informs us, and reports from Buenos Ayres are to the effect that Dr. Melvin expressed himself as most pleased with Argentine meat and methods employed in the industry.

In an editorial on "Meat Trade and Imports," the current issue of the National Provisioner, the official organ of the American Meat Packers' association, after emphasizing the statement that as the organ of the trade it has never opposed free meat, says:

"The National Provisioner has endeavored to set forth the facts concerning the meat situation the world over, and it has stated its belief that because of a world-wide beef scarcity the more placing of meat on the free list would not reduce prices or increase the supply. It has pointed to the fact that Europe is meat hungry and must look to Argentina and Australia for its supplies, and of course will bid against the United States or any other customer in the world's market. The law of supply and demand always has governed and always will govern the popular fiction concerning a 'beef trust' to the contrary notwithstanding.

"As the pressure on new sources of beef supply has increased prices of cattle and of land in those countries have risen and conditions there have begun to approximate those in the United States. The public is slowly coming to learn that the stories of unlimited reserves of cheap beef in South America and Australia are largely imaginative. We believe this view will be proved beyond dispute when the new law (spotting meats on the free list) has been put into effect, and sufficient time has elapsed to adjust themselves to the new conditions.

"Those markets which pay the best price will get the Argentine and Australian beef we hear so much about. Transportation conditions and expenses must be taken into consideration, also the quality of the imported beef and the taste of consumers. We shall know more about what free meat will do for the United States after we have given them a trial.

"It is the firm belief of those who have studied the situation most thoroughly that the remedy for our meat troubles lies here at home. Until we go back into meat production in the right way here in the United States we are likely to get little permanent relief."

A Long Battle Won

From the beginning of military history disease has killed more soldiers than bullets and has been harder to fight than a thousand regiments of the enemy. Typhoid fever was one of the worst plagues. It appeared wherever any considerable number of men were assembled and claimed a heavy toll of lives. Now typhoid has been overcome and eradicated completely from the army.

Major Frederick F. Russell, of the medical corps, writes in the Journal of the American Medical Association that there has not been a single case of typhoid in the army since last December. This result has been brought about by vaccination, beginning in 1909. In 1902, with an enlisted strength of 89,774 men and officers in the regular army, there were 545 cases of typhoid. In 1912, the first year in which vaccination was made compulsory, there were 27 cases among 85,000 men, the last one occurring December 19, 1912. There has been none since.

An idea of the importance of this victory can be gained from studying the experience of American soldiers in camp during the period of the Spanish-American war. Out of 10,759 soldiers in camp at Jacksonville, Florida, there were 2,692 cases of typhoid fever. As Dr. Russell points out, if this division had been in the midst of an active campaign its fighting strength would have been weakened about one-third.

It is significant that vaccination has been accomplished without danger. During the past four years 200,000 persons have undergone the simple operation without injurious results.

Trust the trusts to catch them coming and going. The beef magnates say they are eager for free trade with Argentina and Australia, but the desire is not actuated by any philanthropic motives, since it appears the American Big Four control the foreign beef supply.

What a disappointment to chaste Los Angeles that the court waived the hearing of further evidence in the Dixie case. The prudent minded thought they had a salacious feast that would rival the Dixie-Cambini hearing.

Sacramento must be a bad place for the poor, as a local statistician estimates there are 13,000,000 flies at large there. An inventor is figuring on selling them in bale lots for chicken feed.

The see-saw of the market never was better illustrated than in the case of copper stocks, which declined as the price of copper advanced. Tonopah has had an experience of the same kind at regular intervals.

PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS REQUIRE SKILL IN COMPOUNDING

Skill in any profession or business must come from adequate experience. A complete stock, scientific equipment, and ample experience give our store marked advantages over the ordinary drug store—when it comes to prescription business.

LET US FILL YOUR PRESCRIPTIONS

You can then be sure of best service. The purest drugs and chemicals enter into the composition of all prescriptions and recipes, and the double-check system which we use renders mistakes impossible.

When you have a prescription to fill, remember these advantages to be had in health, time and money.

NEW PROCESS TO INCREASE FLOW OF GASOLINE

STANDARD OIL CO. ANNOUNCES ITS INTENTION TO EXTRACT MORE FUEL FROM OIL.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Sept. 25.—A revolution in the oil refining business is predicted to result from a new process by which the Standard Oil interests propose to increase the amount of gasoline obtainable from crude oil. The process involves a new method of making gasoline, since it opens the way for breaking up the hydrocarbons of petroleum into the combinations needed and condensing them under compression. The process will reduce the percentage of fuel oil. It is understood motor spirits will appear in the markets soon at about 4 cents less per gallon than the present price of gasoline. The practical working of the process in the Standard's Whiting (Ind.) plant, it is believed, will make it possible to convert 75 per cent of the crude oil into gasoline.

Lungs Were Affected; Now In Good Health

The makers of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for throat and lung troubles, do not claim that it will restore every one to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified it saved their lives that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in many cases prolong life. Read what it accomplished in this case:

Queen's Court, L. I. "Gentlemen: In the year 1904 I was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough and to several doctors, including a specialist. Their medicines failed. My brother then recommended Eckman's Alternative to me very highly. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now well and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative. I wish to thank you for the goodness to me. Whenever I go I highly recommend the Alternative, as I owe my life to it." (Affidavit) JOE J. THOMPSON (Above abbreviated; more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe throat and lung affections, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, stubborn colds and in rebuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.
